FIREMEN FEASTED

Local Organization Entertained by Hon. John M. Reynolds.

In appreciation of the prompt and efficient service rendered by the Bedford Fire Department at the home of Hon. John M. Reynolds Tuesday afternoon, May 18, when his handsome residence on Juliana Heights was threatened with destruction by fire, an excellent turkey dinner was given by him at Smith's Cafe Tuesday evening of this week to the members of the company and several other invited guests.

At the conclusion of the feast Mr. Reynolds addressed the members of the company, highly praising them for the consideration shown him and the members of his family; for their careful means used in extinguishing the fire at his home, and for their conduct in general. He told how dear the old town of Bedford was to him, of the progress it has made along certain lines, and hinted that other good things were in store for the community. He referred to the sacrifices made by volunteer firemen, and said that of all organizations the fire company should be first in the hearts of the town's citizens. He urged the firemen to admit honorary or contributing members to their rolls, whereby funds could be raised to be used for equipment, etc.

At the conclusion of Mr. Reynolds' address, he called upon Chief Burgess Simon Oppenheimer, one of the guests of honor, and an old-time member of the company. Mr. Oppenheimer, in his remarks, highly complimented the firemen, and told how and through what means funds were raised to purchase the steamer now in use.

Chief William R. Piper on behalf of the company, thanked the host for the good things said and done by him for the firemen, and stated that it was his, as well as all the members' aim, during a conflagration, to be careful in the use of water, and not unnecessarily destroy property.

William H. Trout, an old time, as well as a present member, told how they used to fight fire with the old hand pump engine.

M. W. Corle, in a few brief remarks, stated that he had been a member of the company for twenty years, and that to his knowledge, the banquet tendered by Mr. Reynolds, was the highest compliment ever given the company by an individual.

George C. Hawkins, Bedford's old-time "bucket brigade fireman" and mechanical genius, was another of the guests of honor. Mr. Hawkins told of some of the things "in ye olden time," and spoke of the duties of volunteer firemen.

C. G. Blymyer, president of the company; Samuel L. Russell, Secretary; Henderson Points, Forest Reighard, Sewell W. Rouizer, Frank I. Horne and Samuel Croyle were also called upon, and each responded briefly.

John Swihart, who was the first person to arrive at Mr. Reynolds' home on the day of the fire, and who so ably assisted in quenching the flames, was also present as one of the guests.

To say that the fire laddies enjoyed their "eat" would be putting it very mildly. They demonstrated the fact by "cleaning up" everything in sight, and by giving the host three cheers and a vote of thanks. M. W. C.

If you got soaked at the Sunday School Convention while in Bedford, do not blame it on Bedford. We couldn't help it. We were sorry for the inclement weather. We wanted to put up a great parade on Wednesday evening at twilight. Many of the people of the surrounding towns and country were ready to turn out.

A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY
FROM
REACH YOUR HAND TO ME
BY
JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

Reach your hand to me, my friend,
With its heartiest caress—
Sometime there will come an end
To its present faithfulness—
Sometime I may ask in vain
For the touch of it again,
When between us land or sea
Holds it ever back from me.

Sometime I may need it so,
Groping somewhere in the night,
It will seem to me as though
Just a touch, however light,
Would make all the darkness day,
And along some sunny way
Lead me through an April shower
Of my tears to this fair hour.

COMMENCEMENT

Eight Girls and Four Boys Graduate
From Bedford High School.

The commencement exercises proper of the Bedford High School began with the Baccalaureate sermon delivered in Assembly Hall Sunday evening, May 23, by Rev. G. W. Faus, pastor of the Methodist Church. Text: "For the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister." Matt. 10: 45.

Rev. Faus was full of his subject, the sermon, a masterpiece, and advice to the "Class of 1915" most wholesome. Inspiring music was rendered by a large chorus choir and orchestra under direction of Prof. S. H. Koontz.

The Class Day Play presented by the Senior Class Thursday evening, May 27, was a happy departure from the usual order of exercises and was most realistic in its suggestion of the trials attending the closing day duties of the school "Professor."

The characters of the play were all well chosen, the president of the class, Howard Steiner, taking the part of the "Professor" most creditably. The play was given in three acts each of which was brimful of fun in Class Day sports. The class was greeted by a crowded house.

The program following which was presented Friday evening, speaks for itself and would have done credit to an institution of higher learning.

The musical talent of the class was especially marked, the various program numbers eliciting hearty applause.

L. H. Hinkle; Chain Oration, Howard H. Steiner; Reply to Chain Oration, Oscar Straub, President of Class 1916; Farewell Song.

At the close of the program Superintendent L. H. Hinkle presented a medal to Catherine Snell for her successful completion of the special classical course. Miss Snell won the honors as Class Salutatorian, and Miss Helen Fisher as Valedictorian. The Class of "1915" passes out into larger fields of usefulness having acquitted itself creditably.

Following the completion of his post-graduate course, he had purchased the practice of Dr. Chapman, in Muskegon, a city of 30,000, and left for there May 18. ## Lincoln Highway Moving Pictures

The representatives of the Lincoln Highway were here on Monday and took the "movies" for Bedford on that day. They took in the Springs, Aradale, Washington's Headquarters and the Public Square. They were received at the monument by an enthusiastic crowd. After photographing the reception maneuvers the autos formed five abreast on East Penn Street and were taken moving up toward the Corle House. Everett sent a delegation of about a dozen cars to help swell our crowds to which compliment we responded by sending a delegation of cars to Everett on Tuesday to help them. We wish to extend our thanks to the borough down the river for their helpful interest.

WAS A GOOD STEWARD

Poor Directors Lose Capable Man by Resignation of Mr. Fluke.

James F. Fluke, who resigned as steward of the Alms House, moved to Saxton on Tuesday. Mr. Fluke made the best steward the county has had for years. He is industrious and painstaking a fact which is substantiated by his own thrift and home life in Liberty Township, and by the many valuable and lasting improvements he made to the farm while he was steward.

He was not afraid to take hold of the now handles himself and till the ground along with his fellow laborers. He dug ditch, picked stone, grubbed and hauled personally, something that has not been done by any steward for years back. He built 2,300 feet of concrete; dug a ditch of 765 feet from barn to stream, tiled and filled with stone picked from the fields and from an old stone fence; also one of 450 feet of ditch from spring to stream, tiled and filled in with stone; dug a ditch of 691 feet from orchard, tiled and filled with stone. These ditches are worth several hundred dollars to the farm according to Director Brumbaugh's estimation. He built a stone bridge between barn and orchard 75 feet long, 19 feet wide and five feet at highest point. Mr. Fluke said he could make the farm nearly self supporting with three teams in two years. It would pay Bedford County to hire Mr. Fluke at $2,000 a year if he can do that and judging from his ability and his success at his own home, we think he knows, possibly much better than the directors.

Mr. Fluke is not a showy man but an honest man. He knows how to farm because he has made a splendid success of it personally. He has hauled 1,300 bushels of lime and limed nearly all of 25 acres of corn ground this spring, besides putting out 17 acres of oats, much of which he limed.

How to Destroy Catarrh Germs and End Catarrh Forever

Catarrh, according to a noted authority, is a germ disease and the only way to cure it so it will stay cured and never come back is to kill and drive out of your system the catarrhal germs which have found lodgment there. When the germs go the catarrh will stop.

There is nothing better for destroying catarrh germs than breathing into your nose and lungs the pleasant, soothing, healing, germ destroying air of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-mei) made from purest oil of Eucalyptus and combined with other powerful healing, antiseptic and germ destroying ingredients. Hyomei penetrates and heals the inflamed swollen membranes of your nose and throat, stops discharges, clears the passages and completely overcomes the disease by destroying its cause. For catarrh germs cannot live in your body after Hyomei reaches them. F. W. Jordan, Jr., and many other good druggists in Bedford and vicinity have long sold Hyomei on a positive guarantee of successful results or money back and find this generous policy pays.—Adv. 28 May 21.

ROOSEVELT VS. BARNES

In the Barnes-Roosevelt libel suit in Syracuse, Roosevelt put a very heavy knock-out blow over on Barnes. The press throughout the country reverberates the declaration that Barnes ought to be rushed to the rear of the stage and dropped out of sight. But you see he has the power to stand up, for he has a Governor who will boost him and a legislature to his liking. New York State put new feet on him or reshod him last fall at the election which will enable him to stand until after the 1916 campaign and that will serve his as well as the Republican purpose. After that all his bad deeds which connects up his party as well in debauchery, will be lost to view and the same graft, coercion and ballot corruption will be the same as ever, to the Republican liking.

The effect it will have on Roosevelt is apparent. He stands out to the public as vindicated in the assertion that the Republican leader of New York City and State is no less than he charged and that Roosevelt knew the facts and maintained them in the suit. Barnes thought he would kill Roosevelt but he killed himself and linked up the Republican party in the whole scheme so completely that he has killed the party as well, for Barnes has flocked with Penrose, Cannon, Aldrich so closely and completely that he puts these leaders in about the same boat. Of course we know what Penrose is. He is too near to us to keep his record hid and his past confessions forced upon him by the press and investigating committees puts him in the same category politically. The set-to will help Roosevelt immensely and make him a great factor in the 1916 campaign. The verdict was so completely in his favor that no one can doubt its influence for good throughout the United States and its power to add to his individual strength as a moral factor and as a political leader.

Watch Your Children

Often children do not let parents know they are constipated. They fear something distasteful. They will like Rexall's—a mild laxative that tastes like sugar. Sold only by us, 10 cents.

Frank W. Jordan, Jr.

ARE THE VETERANS FORGOTTEN?

It has long been remarked that the exercises of the national Memorial day, May 30, do not attract anything like the interest that used to be manifested in them. Twenty years ago prominent citizens all through the Northern States used to attend these functions in large numbers. There was able oratory and the enthusiasm of a big crowd. It is a matter of keen regret to the remnant of veterans left today, that it is so difficult to get half as good a turnout today.

Various expedients have been tried to make these observances more popular. They have been held Sundays and in the evening, instead of on the holiday. Some such change may draw a crowd for once. But the American people are eager for a holiday. They flock to the ball grounds and the automobile road. The eloquence of patriotic speakers resounds in more or less empty halls.

Falling Hair or Itching Scalp

Now that Parisian Sage—an inexpensive preparation that supplies every hair and scalp need—can be had from F. W. Jordan, Jr., it is certainly needless to have thin, brittle, matted, stringy or faded hair. No matter how unsightly your hair, how badly it is falling, or how much dandruff, Parisian Sage is all that is needed. Every trace of dandruff is removed with one application, the hair roots are nourished and stimulated to grow new hair, itching scalp and falling hair cease.

Parisian Sage is certainly one of the most invigorating tonics, and will surely make your hair soft, abundant and radiant with life and beauty. Adv. May 28, 21.

POOR WAR GOODS

Reports are circulated that much complaint is being made abroad with the quality of war goods imported from this country. It is asserted that on a large order for socks, while the contract called for 70 per cent. wool, yet the goods were found to be 70 per cent. cotton. Also a big shipment of shoes it is said has gone to pieces in actual wear.

Now stories like these may be greatly magnified by foreign producers, who dislike to see American goods getting a foothold even in war time. But there may be some basis for them. "Tricks in every trade but ours," is a common proverb. Adulterations are common in this country, and sometimes seem necessary to get business.

The war ought to make increased markets for American goods. But if these goods vary from sample or agreement, the new business will never stick.

American manufacturers can't build up permanent trade, at home or abroad, except on honest goods. If inferior material has to be used to compete with rivals, the buyer should be told the fact. He is sure to find it out. If he buys with his eyes open, there is no come-back.

Very different standards prevail in different manufacturing communities, in this matter. In some factories the tradition of strictly first class material is handed on from the boss to the men, from father to son. There is a factory sentiment that inferior material hurts the business in the long run, and for the good of the seller and the workman as well as the buyer, should be rejected. In other places the idea of substituting inferior stock and loose standardization of quality is equally traditional. A temporary success may be reached on the latter basis. But it is impossible to see how it can become continuous and substantial.

A CAUTION TO THE SMALL INVESTOR

The collapse of several important railroad systems in the United States should be a lesson to people with small fortunes to invest. There is many a case today where the only security of a little home has been the regular dividend turning up every three months. When that cheerful messenger of comfort is turned into its ominous opposite, an assessment on stock, the person who suffers learns a life long lesson. But many others of the same type of people keep on putting money into equally hazardous enterprises.

Like the people who are called "land poor," their property may be so blanketed by mortgages and debts that a lot of money must be collected and laid out if the property is ever to be put on a paying basis.

When a corporation is distributing securities over a wide area to the general public, it would promote sound finance and confidence in the company, if it would issue bonds and stock in somewhere nearly equal proportions. Something in the neighborhood of a half of the property ought to be represented by bonds which the stockholders agree to pay before receiving anything for their property. Then the rest of the capitalization can be issued in stock, which may be taken up properly only by people of some wealth or experience in finance, and who can afford to lose if the property goes wrong.

There is always a tendency to issue too large a part of capitalization in the form of bonds. Realizing that the public regards bonds as safer than stock, many companies get around this difficulty by issuing the great bulk of their capital in the form of bonds, and with only a small quantity of stock.

You can not make a security safe merely by calling it a bond. The cautious investor should carefully inquire whether the proportion of bonds to the value of the remaining property is abnormal and top-heavy.

Evangelistic services will open on the Walnut Grove campground, Monday, August 9, and will continue every night for two weeks. They will be in charge of Rev. J. Tinker of Houtzdale. He is a well known evangelist. The camp, proper, will open August 13 and close on the 22nd. The music will be in charge of Rev. W. A. Spies of Madsensville. Miss Minnie Grove being organist.

Mrs. Julia Ramsey of Saxton, who has so ably led the children's services for the past three years, will again have charge of the services. Rev. W. N. Yates, D. D., one of the most noted platform speakers of the State, will speak on Tuesday morning and afternoon.

Ralph Erhen will have charge of the photographer's tent. J. C. Cronwell will again run the boarding house. Dr. Ashton will have charge of the restaurant. The hack and feed privileges are not yet sold. Bids are still being received by the General Manager, Rev. F. W. McGuire, Lisburn, Cumberland County, Pa., who will also have charge of the renting of tents, lodging and other rights about the campground.

The same rules, regulations and rates will prevail as last year except that the lodging will be twenty-five cents Saturday night instead of fifteen as in former years. The Ladies' Aid Society will have a table for fancy work which will be sold for the benefit of the camp. Gifts for the same are solicited.

The campmeeting will be held under the Association which was organized by the East Pennsylvania Elder-ship of the Churches of God in 1910. Rev. McGuire, who has been general manager since the Association was formed, had charge of the camp three years before that time and attended every camp since and including 1898. Others who have been long associated with the camp are David Ashton, J. S. Reihart, E. R. Wible, Naam Locke and E. E. Ramsey.

New Enterprise

June 1—Decorations Day was observed here on May 31, and was quite a success. The town was full of people who were treated to an interesting program. Rev. Roy Brumbaugh of the Brethren Church and Prof. H. D. Metzger, principal of our normal school, were the speakers of the day. The exercises were interspersed with recitations, singing and music by the Saleville Cornet Band. The exercises were held on the school grounds, which were beautifully decorated with flags and flowers. Prior to the exercises there was a parade through town and up to the school grounds, which was headed by Uncle Sam in uniform, mounted on horseback, followed by the band, a number of young men on horses and the school. The G. A. R. Camp, No. 62, of Roaring Spring presented a number of flags for decorating the old soldiers' graves. After the exercises, Albert Butts of Loysburg and Prof. H. D. Metzger went to the cemetery and decorated the six graves of the soldiers buried at this place with flags and also with flowers which were presented by the normal school.

Mr. Butts also placed flags on five graves in the cemetery at Saleville one at Koontz's, one at Hetrick's, one at old Bethel, five at Waterside and ten at Loysburg. Mr. Butts has been placing flags on these graves for a number of years and deserves much credit for his loyalty and patriotism.

Ira Campbell, who spent about four weeks in the Roaring Spring Hospital, is home again much improved.

Mrs. H. M. Guyer has returned to the Roaring Spring Hospital for treatment and at last accounts is getting along nicely.

Mrs. Harry B. Furry disposed of her household goods last Saturday at public auction, and on Monday with her children started for Stoyes-town, where they expect to spend some time before going to Albuquerque, where she and her husband lived a few years ago.

We had a very interesting game of baseball after the decoration services Monday evening between the Normal School and surrounding vicinity which ended with a score of 3-3 at the close of the tenth inning.

The Normal School of this place expects to play the High School of Roaring Spring next Saturday at New Enterprise.

GAINS 40 POUNDS IN 40 DAYS

Remarkable Results of the New Tissue Builder, Tonoline Tablets, in Many Cases of Run-Down Men and Women.

Prove it Yourself by Buying a Box of Tonoline Tablets Now.

"By George, I never saw anything like the effects of that new treatment, Tonoline Tablets, for building up of weight and lost nerve force. It acted more like a miracle than a medicine," said a well-known gentleman yesterday in speaking of the revolution that had taken place in his condition. "I began to think that there was nothing on earth that could make me fat. I tried tonics, digestives, heavy eating, diets, milk, beer and almost everything else you could think of, but without result."

Any man or woman who is thin can recover normal weight by the best new treatment, Tonoline Tablets. "I have been thin for years and began to think it was natural for me to be that way. Finally I read about the remarkable processes brought about by use of Tonoline Tabs, so I decided to try them myself. Well, when I look at myself in the mirror now, I think it is somebody else. I have put on just forty pounds during the last forty days, and never felt stronger or more 'nervy' in my life." Tonoline Tabs are a powerful inducer to nutrition, increases cell-growth, food, increases the number of blood-corpuses and as a necessary result builds up muscles, and solid healthy flesh, and rounds out the figure.

For women who can never appear stylish in anything they wear because of their thinness this remarkable treatment may prove a revelation. It is a beauty maker as well as a form builder and nerve strengthener. Tonoline Tabs cost $1 for a 50-days' treatment, at druggists, or mailed by American Proprietary Company, Boston, Mass.—Adv. 14 May 4.

Zinn of the Lutheran Church of this place. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery. She is survived by her husband and three children.

Miss Mary Slick, a venerable lady of this place, who has been making her home with her sister, Mrs. Margaret Speece for a number of years, fell a few days ago while walking in the yard and broke her hip. She was taken to the Nason Hospital, Roaring Spring, for treatment yesterday morning.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran Church of this place held a festival in the Eagle Hall Saturday evening, which was well attended.

Mrs. Joseph Crissman and two daughters have returned from Rainsburg, where they spent a week visiting friends.

Mrs. J. S. Bowser and son, H. Kerr Bowser, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Martin of Altoona spent Decoration Day with friends in Schellsburg.

Mrs. Bruce Croyle and little daughter are spending the week with home folks at Schellsburg.

Mr. Stanley, liveryman of Tyrone, spent several days in the burg on business recently.

George Speece of Altoona was a guest of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Speece, several days recently.

ALGERIANS ARE LIARS.

They May Tell the Truth at Times, but You Are Never Sure.

The chief fault of the native Algerians seems to be a certain predilection for lying. It appears to be an instinctive desire to deceive, not so much for the sake of profit as for the sake of deception. Albert Edwards, in "The Barbary Coast," tells us that he asked his French host why one of his workmen wore green braid on his turbans, since in Persia only those who have made the pilgrimage to Mecca are thus attired.

"Mohammed," my host called. The tall, dignified native left his plow and came over to us.

"Have you been to Mecca?" M. Gardet asked in Arabic.

"No, Sidi," the Arab said and went back to his work.

"He says 'No,'" M. Gardet translated to me. "But like as not he has been there six times. If they would always lie you could understand them. But sometimes they tell the truth. Perhaps he hasn't been there. If I should ask six of my workmen about it three would say that Mohammed had been to Mecca, three would say he hadn't."

So I stopped asking my host questions about the Arabs. But in all the time I have been in Algeria I have never found a Frenchman who felt differently about it. Guy de Maupassant, whose eyes pierced so deeply through the lies of French life, could not fathom the Arabs. "They are incomprehensible," he writes. "They lie."

Penn Suffragists Denounce Plan to Harass President Wilson

Harrisburg, June 1.—Declaring that the suffragists of Pennsylvania are determined to continue dignified methods of bringing their cause before the public, Mrs. Frank M. Roessing, president of the State Association, today issued a statement denouncing any plan to annoy President Wilson in an effort to get him to declare himself on suffrage.

Mrs. Roessing prefaced her statement with the explanation that the women who have been harassing the President are members of the Congressional Union, and that the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association, which comprises every organization of suffragists in this State, is in no way identified with the Congressional organization and has nothing to do with it.

"The Congressional Union," she continued, "is a small body of women who have recently opened headquarters in Washington, D. C., and who in no sense represent the great body of American suffragists."

"I wish entirely to repudiate the policy of the Congressional Union in attempting to harass the President. From the time our State organization was founded in 1869, the methods employed by the Pennsylvania suffragists have always been along dignified educational lines in keeping with the character of the women advocating this cause. Happily, the public and the newspapers have without exception appreciated the real spirit and motives of the Pennsylvania women, and have never failed to acknowledge, that, whatever women might do elsewhere, Pennsylvania suffragists had used only dignified methods."

"We shall continue the propaganda work in our customary way, not by appealing to the President at all, for he has nothing to do with suffrage in Pennsylvania, but by stating to the men of our State the reasons why we women desire and are entitled to the ballot. We shall present the merits of the question to the voters, always with respect to their rights and privileges as citizens, even as we request respect for ours."

Mrs. Roessing wrote to the President recently in behalf of the State suffragists, assuring him of their appreciation of the burden he is carrying at this time, and received a letter of thanks for their expression of confidence.

Are Our Eyes Degenerating?

This question is frequently asked by people who observe closely and who are dismayed by the remarkably large number of people who wear glasses today, as compared with a generation or so ago. Our eyes are not degenerating. The eyes of the present generation are in no wise poorer, weaker, or inferior, to those of our ancestors, notwithstanding the fact a far greater percentage wear glasses than formerly.

The probabilities are that the eyes of the human race are neither weaker nor stronger today than were those of our forefathers, unless it can be proven that the whole physique of the race today is weaker or stronger. As is the whole physical body, so are the eyes.

But much more is required of our eyes now than was ever required of our ancestors. The strenuous struggle for existence today, the ever increasing complexity of our modern civilized life, the multiplying knowledge of the world in all lines of human endeavor, knowledge that must be mastered if we would rise and achieve success, put far greater strain on the eyes of this generation than on those that have gone before.

Our schools are far more exacting and severe, the business and scientific world require closer application and more painstaking care than ever before. Electricity has turned night into day, and much more work is now done by artificial illumination than in the past. Sharp competition in every line makes it necessary to have the best vision obtainable.

Because of these exacting demands on our eyes latent imperfections, errors of refraction causing eye-strain, are brought out and made manifest by symptoms of discontent and distress, compelling us to seek the improvement of vision and the comfort afforded by properly fitted lenses.

Investigation has shown that primitive races of men have the same irregularities in shape and form of the eyes as are found in civilized races. The difference lies in the occupation, out of door life, and the limited use made of the vision by the savage races.

Examination of the eyes of the Indian students at Carlisle and other Indian schools shows that about 30 per cent. of them have refractive errors, and need correcting lenses. This is approximately as large a percentage as is exhibited by the white races.

Even the lower animals show the same irregularities and imperfections in shape and form of eye which give rise to the discomforts caused by refractive errors in man.

Some years ago, an enterprising and intrepid oculist in New York City, succeeded by means of the retinoscope in measuring the refraction of the eyes of many of the wild animals in Bronx Zoological Park of that city. He found a considerable percentage of them with the same imperfections as exist in man. It is not reported, however, that he fitted them with glasses.

The percentage of people wearing glasses, in a community, or group, or society, is an index to the educational and scholastic attainments of that group or society. The more the eyes are used for prolonged study and close work, the more necessary it becomes to wear correcting lenses for any existing refractive errors. It will frequently be found in any group of professional and scientific men, scholars, professors, teachers, lawyers, doctors, etc., that from 30 to 60 per cent. of them are wearing glasses.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of Sunday School Course of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 6

NATHAN REBUKES DAVID.

LESSON TEXT—II Samuel 11:22-12:7a. GOLDEN TEXT—Create in me a clean heart O God.—Psalm 51:10.

This is a lesson that demands great care in its presentation and treatment, which will differ widely according to age. For the younger the briefest sort of statement that David fell in love with Uriah's wife and to obtain her had her husband killed will be sufficient. With such, throw the emphasis upon the danger of harboring evil thoughts and the need of heart purity (see Golden Text).

With adults, however, some time may be devoted to the social evil which is such a menace to every nation, care being taken lest the discussion become morbid, or that we neglect to emphasize the fact that the cure is not in regulation or reformation but in the regeneration of the human heart.

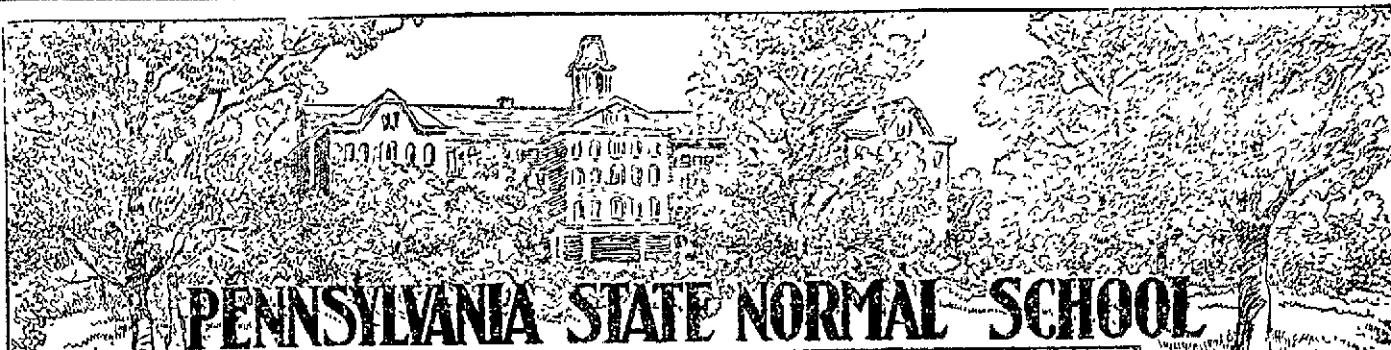

I. David's Many Good Deeds, II Samuel, 7 and 9. As a background for his most repulsive sin David had a long list of excellent deeds. His desire for a better abiding place for the ark was not according to God's will for two reasons: first, that an ornate house might easily corrupt, through idolatry, the spirituality of the Hebrew religion; second, David was a man of war and therefore not qualified for temple building. Though denied, David did not despair, but at once provided that his successor carry out his desire.

II. David's One Great Sin, II Samuel, 11:6. David's victories over his enemies are dismissed in a few verses, yet his sin is set forth in detail—another evidence of the divine origin and inspiration of the Bible. David had followed the example of neighboring kings and taken to himself many wives, evidently regarding his fancy as supreme and himself as above the law. David was "off guard" in the matter of temptation, a dangerous position for all, both soldier and civilian. David had had too long and too great a period of success and prosperity after his long period of privation, and this led to carelessness and pride. David was "off duty," indulging in ease while Joab did his fighting. As a result he became an adulterer and a murderer, and the record in no way seeks to palliate his guilt. From all this the record brings to us many important lessons. Outwardly prosperous and his army successful, David must have felt in his heart the spiritual blight in the words, "but the thing was evil in the eyes of the Lord" (v. 27 R. V.); no psalm writing then.

III. Nathan's Parable, II Samuel, 12:1-7. It is an evidence of God's grace that he sent his servant to rebuke and restore this "man after his own heart." Such is his mercy, for he does not will that any should perish but that all might come to the knowledge of forgiveness (Ezekiel 33:11; Matthew 23:37). No parable ever had its desired effect more quickly than this one. It brought conviction and repentance (v. 13) and led to the writing of the fifty-first psalm. It was a delicate task set before Nathan thus to rebuke the king, yet it reveals the essential nobleness of David in that he did not become angry. Nathan's task and his wisdom are revealed in his approach and in the way he led David to condemn, unwittingly, his own course of action. This was better than to begin by upbraiding and denunciation. Verse two suggests, inferentially, God's great goodness to David, which made the offense one of gross ingratitude.

IV. Thou Art the Man—v. 7a. Thus far the story is one all too common, then and now, of the strong crushing the weak and glorying in their selfishness. What follows is the evidence of God's response to man's repentance, the parallel to which has nowhere else been found in the ancient world. The glory of it is that David heard and heeded God's messenger. The whole sordid story with its resultant action on David's part brings us many priceless lessons. (1) That man who had lived a life of faith and communion fell most miserably when he neglected his duty and took his eyes off God. There is a grave danger ahead of the man who begins to trifle with sin (I Cor. 10:12). (2) Though a man utterly cast down. There is pardon for the vilest sinner and the most abject backslider. David's murderous hands and sin-stained soul found pardon (Ps. 32 and 51). (3) A man's sins, though he may find pardon, will cloud all of his future.

David felt it in his own life and family; both daughter and sons felt its blight (see chapter 13), and it brought forth David's immortal lament over Absalom. David's trusted friend joined the son's rebellion and caused David great sorrow (see 11:3; 23:34; 15:21 and Ps. 55:12-14). A man book would cover up, omit or seek to palliate such an act by one of the great of the earth (cf. the story of Napoleon and Josephine), yet the Bible tells all the facts to serve as a warning and to reveal God's matchless grace and mercy.

North American comments on two of the Public Service Commissioners: "The best equipped member, in our judgment, is William A. Magee, former Mayor of Pittsburgh; and the worst, Samuel W. Pennypacker."

"As Mayor of Pittsburgh he (Magee) was faced by problems arising from the fact that the city, intent only upon achieving material advancement, had conferred rights and privileges upon corporations with a prodigal disregard for the future and for the rights of human beings in the community. This circumstance made the work of rational improvement excessively difficult, but, largely because of the tireless interest of Magee, Pittsburgh has far distanced Philadelphia in developing such substantial benefits as parks and boulevards, these works being carried out under the supervision of a planning commission, so that the project has the qualities of coherence and permanency."

"A singular contrast is found in Pennypacker. A man less fitted to handle problems of progress could hardly be imagined—one who is instinctively irritated and almost affronted by such modern devices as electric lights and telephones and automobiles; whose shuttered mind is darkened against the lessons of the present and the visions of the future; whose intellect is of the type that determines questions in advance, and whose judgment is impervious to facts."

"His reappointment was, however, almost inevitable. As a former Governor and a friend of the present executive, he had sentimental claims which probably were powerful. Really, his elevation should be charged less to Governor Brumbaugh than to a former administration, whose attorney general failed to include him in the prosecutions which sent his associates in the capitol scandal to the penitentiary."

It is becoming more apparent every day and more urging every day that President Wilson's ship purchase bill to establish a Merchant Marine for the United States was a step in the right direction and whose failure was due to the reactionary Republicans in collusion with three twin-machine Democrats. If any failure to secure the South American maritime trade materializes the Republican party will be credited with that failure. It has been a party of do-nothing for years except to tax the people out of existence and favor a half dozen plutocrats and ignoring millions of worthy claimants—the common people. The most influential banker in South America now says that the Americas must maintain a Merchant Marine sufficient to carry on the trade between the countries and must do it now, while the war is on or the foreign countries will grapple for it when the war is over and make it difficult if not impossible to get a foothold thereafter. Had we passed the Ship Purchase Bill as Wilson asked we could go to work now and formulate plans for the capturing of this trade, which has always gone to Europe.

We wish to extend our hearty thanks to the Inquirer for the exalted position in which it placed us last week by comparing our editorial of April 23 with one of the Public Ledger, Philadelphia. Had it been compared with an editorial, when they have one, in the Inquirer we would have considered it a mighty commonplace composition and would have hidden our faces in shame but to be squared with one of our leading journals is a distinction of which we are proud. Besides it took from April 23 to May 28, five weeks, to muster up an answer and then the answer had to be copied and a five or ten dollar cartoon thrown in. If our editorials are so expensive as that to our opponent, it would pay to visit our forum and beseech our mercy until the wheels of thought of the Inquirer editor, get oiled up and the gummy sediment removed if there ever was any occasion to be gummed so that a reply may come forth at once, if needs be. Thanks for the honor.

CONVENIENCE OF HOME STORES

A friend was telling the other day about the habits of trading that many people had contracted in the town in which he lives. In order to get more of the home trade, the grocers of the town made a special drive on sugar and flour, offering them at cost in order to get everyone coming into the home stores. The buy-out-of-town people would come in and stock up on flour and sugar, but would buy practically nothing else.

However if these people got short of a yeast cake, or if they wanted ten cents worth of coffee in a hurry, they would telephone down to the home store. They would get really angry if the local merchant didn't send his team right away to fill the little order.

A line of good enterprising stores in a place are a public convenience just as important as electric lights, railroads, water supply, etc. On their enterprise and success the public depends for good service. A hundred times in the course of a year the citizen looks to their good nature to provide him with goods in a hurry, or to hunt up some particular article that he wants.

Since the citizen receives all these favors from the home store, he should show a spirit of reciprocity in his dealings with it. He can not expect that his wants will be carefully looked after and his convenience consulted, unless he takes pains to patronize the home store. Furthermore if a large part of the public give the cream of the trade to outside dealers, the home stores can never enlarge their facilities. Nor can they serve the public as they wish to, and as the public should be served in a town of this size.

DISORDERLY HABITS

There are several persistent habits on the part of the public, particularly of many young people, that tend to keep most towns looking disorderly, and are too much in evidence in Bedford.

The distribution of handbills and advertising sheets is often done in a careless way by boys. They will throw a bill on the porch of a house, where the first puff of wind blows it into the street.

Many boys in delivering handbills will stuff them into the hands of passers-by who have no interest in them, and who throw them away without looking at them.

Young fellows working as store clerks are often careless in handling litter. The first duty of the morning is to sweep out the store, and if they perform this task before the employer gets around, they sometimes think they can save five minutes of their precious time and energy by sweeping the refuse into the streets.

The Gazette has previously remarked on the common habit of throwing away on the street the paper bags in which fruit, candy, peanuts, etc., were purchased. Another slovenly and offensive trick is the habit of tearing up letters and scattering the scraps over the walks. Some one has to pick up these pieces bit by bit if the street is ever to look clean. Still another is to throw banana and orange rinds on the walk or beside it on the lawn. And another is to walk on the grass beside the walk when the walk is plenty wide enough for two and many places for four or six abreast. Owners of properties need to put ropes and hand-guards to keep people on the walk and off the grass.

Probably the only way to get at this disorderly spirit is in the long run through the schools. But parents should teach the public value of neatness. The children should be told that dirty streets make the town less attractive to strangers, make people less likely to come here to live, that they depress the value of real estate, and thus work against the prosperity and comfort of every family.

GETTING A START IN MANUFACTURING

One of the big problems bothering a great many American young men, soon to be graduated from colleges and schools, is as to how they can get a start in some line of manufacturing. This is perhaps the opportunity that looks most attractive to the bulk of our business beginners.

Some thoughts on this question were presented the past week to the National Association of Manufacturers, by a committee on industrial education. The committee urged that rich men's boys and poor men's boys should be trained at the same school in basic processes of manufacture.

A great many ambitious young men take jobs at office work. They may spend years in dictating letters, receiving and shipping orders, keeping books, and passing on credits. And after they have spent the first flush of their young manhood they may have but a superficial knowledge of the processes of making the goods.

They might be able to run a business, if these processes continued the same year after year. But fashions of manufacture change fast. The office trained man is incapable of adapting himself to these changes and his subordinates take advantage of his ignorance.

The thoroughly trained factory manager should be able to go into the mill and perform any process himself, at least well enough so he can know when an employee does it skillfully and effectively. But the men who have worked at the bench usually know only a very few processes and lack broad business training, and those who have had broad education are helpless when they see a tool or a machine.

The work at the bench comes closer to the heart of a business than any function performed with clean hands in an office. As time goes on there will be more trade schools, as suggested by the manufacturers' committee referred to above, where young men can acquire general technical knowledge without doing some routine thing over and over again for years.

Paint

Every gallon costs a painter's day's work.

Poor paint, more gallons; good paint, less gallons.

Every extra gallon adds to your job its price and the painter's day's work; not far from $5 a gallon.

There are a dozen good paints and hundreds of poor ones. Devote is one of the dozen. The chances are: there isn't another in this town.

Everett

June 2—Mrs. Julia Mills and daughter Ruby of Philadelphia are visiting friends in and about Everett.

Dr. J. Harper Black and wife, their son James and his wife of Chambersburg autoed to Everett giving a short visit with Mrs. J. T. Sheeder and family on Monday.

The memorial address made by Dr. Americus Enfield of Bedford in the M. E. Church on Monday before the G. A. R. veterans was listened to with unusual interest. The house was filled to overflowing. At the close, the honored veterans of war were conveyed in autos to the cemetery, followed by the band, citizens and friends bearing some floral emblem of love. The cemetery was visited by hundreds of people during the day. Until evening it was a perfect nosegay.

Attorney Joseph F. Biddle, who has been in attendance as a delegate at the Synod in Akron, O., returned home on Tuesday.

J. E. McDaniel and family visited A. S. Greenland and family over Sunday.

Dr. Hunt and "Ed" Snyder brought their families to Everett Tuesday and their faces too will be seen in the Lincoln Highway pictures.

Mrs. D. R. Whetstone entertained a few close friends Monday afternoon in honor of her guests from Harrisburg.

Miss Ruth Salkeld of Breezewood is in attendance at the normal now in session at this place.

Albert Ritchey of Earlston met with a most distressing misfortune. While caring for his horses Tuesday morning one of them bit off one of his fingers and injured the third so seriously that amputation followed.

The many friends of A. B. Bowen, who has for the past few years made his home at the popular "Inn" at Roaring Spring, are glad to have another visit from him.

George P. Weaverling of Pittsburgh who has for years visited this place the last of May, returned home Wednesday. George always brings and leaves a smile. We always feel better for his having been with us.

J. Allie Eichelberger and sons were in Everett on Saturday.

J. J. Hadey, a wholesale merchant of Romney, W. Va., was among the visitors Saturday and Sunday.

Arrangements have been completed for oiling the State road from the "Crossings," six miles east of Everett, to the Somerset line—thus including Main Street. Pittsburgh gravel is now being shipped to cover the same.

The concrete piers and walls for the Gump coal wharf are completed. H. E. Laher's oil tanks have been placed and the railroad company has finished the filling and extended the track for the conveniences of these two enterprises.

The Lincoln Highway Committee of our borough collected in a short while more than $200 by subscription.

The Lincoln Highway Committee completed at last the taking of the pictures of our town and people. In spite of the disagreeable weather Saturday the town had a crowd in the afternoon and with banners flying and bands playing we seemed to forget the inclement weather and at 3 o'clock everybody was smiling toward the tripod. Monday morning pictures were taken of the cliffs east of town. We pride ourselves in the fact that the photographers said no such scenery can be found in the State of Pennsylvania. Everett furnace and planing mill were also focused. A number of pictures were taken at the diamond Monday afternoon, where two arches decorated with spruce and little flags had been erected diagonally across the street crossing in the center from which place was suspended a large banner on which had been painted Everett with Lincoln Highway letters, 108 miles to Pittsburgh and 189 miles to Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Communication From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C., June 1.—Following the receipt here of the German note answering President Wilson's Lusitania protest, official Washington took a most serious view of the situation affecting the two countries, and the feeling produced that of profound disappointment. Dissatisfaction at the failure of Germany to answer the demands of the United States was reflected in government circles generally.

Secretary Bryan would make no comment. Other cabinet officers were reticent, but there was little concealment anywhere that the answer from Berlin had produced a very grave situation. Great concern is felt over the country's future course, and there were many who predicted that, following a sharp rejoinder from the president to Berlin, the administration might find it necessary eventually to break off all diplomatic intercourse with Germany by recalling Ambassador Gerard from the Kaiser's court, and asking the recall of Ambassador von Bernstorff from Washington.

The President, upon whom rests the burden of deciding the government's foreign policy in the absence of Congress, sought solitude for a time, as he did in the trying days immediately after the sinking of the Lusitania, and went motoring—his favorite diversion when desirous of undisturbed application to problems of state. For those who fear a split in the Wilson cabinet when it comes to a show-down of what the United States purposes to do, it may be said that to break off diplomatic intercourse with Germany by recalling the Kaiser's court, and asking the recall of Ambassador von Bernstorff from Washington, by the extreme advocates of drastic action, headed, according to report, by Secretary of the Interior Lane. An absolute denial was made by the Secretary to the President, Joseph P. Tumulty, repairing any impending cabinet split growing out of the government's foreign policy.

Though pressed by the cares of state and the perplexities of the international situation, the President and two members of his cabinet went to Arlington Cemetery to say words of praise on Memorial Day at the resting place of the heroes of the sixties and the Spanish-American War. There in an atmosphere of reverence, the prayers of the chaplains and the orations of cabinet officers, war veterans and others, although phrased in generalities, reflected the great international crisis now confronting the United States. The President's own speech, drawing attention to the desire of those in office to embody in their acts the expression of "the untrammelled" opinion of the people of the United States, was interpreted by many of his hearers as meaning that he was anxious that his course in the international situation be guided by the real wishes of all Americans. He also gave voice to the thought that Memorial Day is not for regret, but for stimulus in going on with the nation's work.

As a fitting climax to the memorial exercises held at Arlington and other cemeteries in and around the National Capital, a series of classical peace tableaux were given at the close of the day at the foot of the Washington monument under the auspices of the Washington branch of the Women's Peace Party.

The first Pan-American financial conference which was held here closed its session of one week's duration with well marked progress in the work of national co-operation. The Secretary of the Treasury scored for this country a notable triumph. Among the most favored propositions before the conference was the creation of an international high commission for the purpose of encouraging international legislation of a uniform character for the strengthening of trade relations between the republics of the Western Hemisphere.

The delegates to this conference have left Washington for a two week's swing from coast to the Mississippi valley, and back on a tour designed to show them some of the greatest industries of the country. During the month of May just closed, millions of dollars in taxes were paid by the people of the District of Columbia, as that was the last month in which taxes could be paid without the imposition of a penalty. This is the time of year when the parks of the city are filled with flowering plants. The average person who admires the flower beds in the parks never realizes that to beautify the 250 public flower beds in and around Washington between 600,000 and 700,000 bedding plants alone are propagated annually in the government greenhouses.

A number of persons from official life, including Mrs. Joseph Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, and many young people of Washington, will visit Annapolis this week, which is the commencement period at the Naval Academy there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stultz attended the funeral of little Robert Geisel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Geisel of Windber on Saturday. The deceased was a nephew of Mrs. Stultz.

The Sunday Schools of this place were represented at the District Convention held in the Lutheran Church at Schellsburg on May 27: Methodist by Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hoover, Mrs. Laura Blackburn, S. H. Mickel and A. C. Richards; Reformed by A. J. Crissman and Miss Ethel Kerr; Church of the Brethren, Rev. A. Pyock and Mrs. Hunt; United Brethren, J. A. Cuppett and Miss Bessie Cuppett. All report a pleasant time and a successful convention.

Notwithstanding the rain Saturday morning, Memorial services were observed by assembling at the M. E. Church. An opening address was made by the marshal, E. V. Wright, and was followed with music by the New Paris Cornet Band. America was sung by the entire audience, Miss Ethel Hoover presiding at the organ. Prayer was offered by Rev. J. Winwood of the U. B. Church. A poem entitled, "The Union Soldiers of Andersonville Prison," was very nicely recited by Miss Laura Dull. A composition of Robert G. Ingersoll, "A Memorial Day Vision," was read by the marshal. The memorial address was given by Prof. J. K. W. Kramer.

After a second selection was rendered by the band, a parade was formed, the band heading the procession and marched to the cemeteries. The few veterans present: E. V. Wright, A. B. Corle, Allen Harbaugh and Elias Snowberger, were taken by J. Warren Mickel in his auto, and nine little girls, Helen Taylor, Sarah and Elizabeth Winwood, Dorcas Corle, Bessie, Leora and Mildred Miller, Laura Dull and Catharine Seese, who had the previous day, under the instruction of Mrs. Mary Bailey, prepared flowers for decorating, were taken by Harper Crissman in an auto. The graves of soldiers were decorated by the few veterans living. The festival announced to be held by the band would have been a failure had it not been for Harvey Mock kindly giving his new house in which to hold it, which is ready for plastering. Our hand boys furnished the music for memorial services held at Pleasantville Monday afternoon. Caj.

Grange Notes

Memorial Day is over. We had a very successful memorial exercise. This work is comparatively a new departure in this community, and is an exercise that is badly needed everywhere. Why your scribe had a young man up in the twenties of years inquire of him "What do you have memorial service for?" And he is a man of ordinary intelligence, too. The fact was very plainly and forcibly brought out by our speaker, Brother Sell, that the nation which forgets its memorials, forgets its God and becomes a dwarf, an insignificant spot on earth, soon to be swallowed up by the greater and more progressive peoples surrounding it. We always aim at perfection in our work, but somehow we have always missed the mark. The lecturer who will have this work on hand next year, will find it easier to improve on this year's work, because each one can contribute a slight change here or there that will finish the exercise in better shape than this year. Let us make "Excelsior" our watchword and Bedford Grange will grow and be looked to as the leader in all work for rural betterment in our community.

We hear that Deputy Inspector Fishertown has his eyes turned toward Fishertown as a good place for a Grange to work. We know the material is right there, and we know the ability to accomplish results must be there, because we can see it in the fields, in the gardens and in the yards of that whole section. It is of a prosperous and intelligent people and need a farmers' organization right there.

We do not think there were as many fruit trees planted this spring as last. Here is where Brother Ross' cannery would come in. We believe in planting and caring for fruit trees. If they won't bear for us, they will for our children and our children's children, or the stranger in our land may rest in its shade and eat the fruit and bless your forethought in planting good fruit. I believe God intended us to eat more of it than of meat, for it ripens ready to serve, and all flavors, so that everybody can enjoy it.

Beginning with a Stereopticon Lecture to morrow evening, and continuing with forenoon, afternoon and evening meetings on Sunday, a rare treat is in store for the members and friends of the Methodist Churches in Bedford and vicinity. Through the Educational Department of the Board of Foreign Missions, a number of district campaigns have been planned in various conferences of Methodism, in which speakers of great ability and experience, are brought into the smaller towns to impart information and inspiration, the result of which is helpful both to the local churches and the foreign fields. Through the influence of the District Superintendent, Dr. E. M. Stevens, Juniata District is being favored with one of these campaigns. Ten different group meetings are being held in as many different centres.

The Bedford group includes the surrounding charges of Wolfsburg, Schellsburg and Alum Bank. Among the speakers will be Dr. James M. Taylor of Nashville, Tenn., for several years in charge of missionary work in South America, and now at the head of the Department of Foreign Evangelism, and Dr. A. J. ## THE LAST STRAW

By GEORGE MUNSON.

"Out of a job, five dollars left in the world, and Cynthia has gone back on me. Why not end it all?"

Those were the musings of Harold Lanark as he stood upon the end of the pier and watched the dark water of the river flowing beneath him. One plunge, a little struggle, and all would be over.

At the age of twenty-four he had not succeeded in making good. He was ashamed to go back to his father's home in the country. He had lost his position the day before, owing to a cutting down of costs in the factory, and he saw no opportunity of another for a long time. Then Cynthia's letter . . . for a miserable little trifle . . .

"Feeling pretty bad, eh, young man?" inquired a voice at his side.

The youth turned to find himself looking into the eyes of a man of about fifty years. He was neatly dressed, a diamond pin glittered in his cravat, and he had all the aspect of a well-to-do man of the world.

"Now if I were to hazard a guess," said the stranger, "I should say that your girl had gone back on you."

"And I've lost my position and have had nothing but ill luck since I came to the city," said Harold.

"And so you're meditating the final plunge into the stream of Lethe, eh?" continued the other. "A swift and rapid oblivion. But suppose, young man, that death does not bring oblivion?"

Harold had not thought of that. He had thought of nothing but his own miserable situation.

"You have youth and health," continued the other. "And you are not penniless, surely?"

"I have five dollars in the world," said the young man, with a hard laugh.

"Then what more can you want?" the other inquired. "You think you are so badly off. Now look at me. I am nearly a millionaire. I have, in fact, close on nine hundred thousand dollars. Yet I am worse off than you."

"How, sir?" asked the other.

"Because my doctor has given me six months to live unless I drop everything and go West. To go West means financial ruin just now. It means the inability to stay and defend a lawsuit which will ruin my reputation. And I, like you, was meditating the final plunge."

"I wouldn't mind changing places with you, sir," said the young man, thoughtfully.

The other laughed mirthlessly. "I'll tell you what we'll do," he said. "I have—well, never mind how much money on me. It is enough to enable you to live for a year. Give me your five dollars and I will give you what I have. Give me your name and take mine—it is a common one and nobody will look twice at you on account of it. Give me the inspiration of youth and five dollars in my pocket, and take the lassitude and disappointment of age and comparative affluence."

"I'll do it," cried the other. "In a year's time you will meet me here again," the elder man continued, after they had effected the exchange, and Harold, with a bulging pocket-book, was beginning to think more hopefully of life. "Meet me here then and let us see how we have fared. Ah, it is the early struggle that gives one inspiration to succeed." He turned away.

"Promise to meet me here at the end of a year?" the elder man resumed, wheeling round upon Harold.

"I promise," said the young fellow. "And your name?"

"John Graham."

"Mine is Harold Lanark."

They shook hands warmly and the elder man departed, leaving Harold upon the pier, gazing at the dark waters in rapt astonishment.

He went home, walking a mile and more to the little hall bedroom which he occupied in a rooming house. He entered lit the gas, and pulled out his pocketbook. The bulging bills dropped out in a great heap upon the table.

They were cigar-store coupons. He had been robbed of his last five dollars!

He sprang to his feet, and then he perceived two letters thrust underneath the door. One bore the stamp of the company which had employed him. He tore it open.

"Dear Sir," it ran, "after reconsidering our plans for the future we have come to the conclusion that we made a mistake in asking for your resignation. We are about to start a new branch and can utilize your knowledge of trade conditions. Kindly report for work tomorrow morning."

The second envelope was addressed in a handwriting which sent the blood to the young man's head.

"Harold, dearest," ran the letter, "won't you forgive me for my unkindness and hardness of heart? I love you, Harold, whatever happens, and I don't care whether you are rich or poor, so long as we can have each other. Write to me at once and tell me that nothing shall ever come between us again.—Cynthia."

Harold Lanark put the letter into the envelope again and placed it against his heart. Then he executed a pas seul round the room, heedless of the angry hammering of the man beneath him.

What did he care? Fate had overstepped herself.

WILLIAM STERLING BATTIS.

William Sterling Battis, once an actor playing "Little Rip" with Joe Jefferson. A man of affairs and letters; acknowledged to be the peer of any Dickens student and interpreter of his day.

After he had finished his child career on the stage Mr. Battis became a teacher, and for years engaged in a very careful and exhaustive study of English literature, specializing upon the works of the great humanist author, Charles Dickens. All this time Mr. Battis was interpreting Dickens much as Henry Clay used to practice oratory at the barn on his southern home. His Dickens characters live; Battis disappears entirely. Mr. Battis makes up in full view of the audience, thus affording one of the most interesting illustrations of stagecraft as well as the actor's assumption of different roles, all in full costume, the night of the third of the chautauqua.

PUBLIC ROADS

DIRECTIONS FOR USING DRAG

Have the Implement Follow Horses at Angle of Forty-Five Degrees, Pushing Earth to Center.

(By D. WARD KING.)

A road-drag is any cheap wooden contrivance that will move a little earth to the middle of the road and leave the surface smooth. Any drag is a good drag, but the split-log or double-slab drag is by far the best.

The directions for use are simple as the drag itself: Ride on the drag, drive the team with one horse on each side of the right-hand wheel track, with the drag following at an angle of about 45 degrees, thus pushing the loose earth toward the center. Drive toward town to your neighbor's front gate, and turning there, come home over the other wheel track.

After the next rain perform the same operation. When this has been done four or five times the road may be widened by plowing a shallow furrow just outside the dragged portion and (with the drag) spreading the loose earth toward the middle.

Special points along the way require special treatment. This operation will make a better road out of any earth highway. The drag may be used when the road is quite wet—particularly at the beginning. The dragging always should be done before the surface is entirely dry.

TRY UNIFORM COLOR SCHEME

Bay State to Adopt Plan Which Has Been Successful in New England—Easy to Tell Roads.

A uniform color scheme, by which motor tourists in the New England states will be able to tell by the color of the road signs whether they are on local or state roads, north and south or east and west main roads, or secondary or diagonal roads, is planned by William D. Sohler, chairman of the Massachusetts highway commission. At present New Hampshire has a color system of its own and Vermont has a complicated one, and the plan in each state has proved of assistance to those familiar with it.

Could a uniform system be extended over the New England territory, Sohler thinks, strangers would find the problem of selecting their roads much simplified. Connecticut, Rhode Island and Maine highway officials have promised to co-operate with the Massachusetts commission in drawing up a simple system, and a conference of highway commissioners at which the subject will be considered is to be held in the near future.

OHIO BOARDS HELP HIGHWAY

Two Counties Unite to Give Lincoln Highway Their Special Care—Additional State Road.

The Lincoln highway in Crawford and Wyandotte counties, Ohio, has received special consideration from State Highway Commissioner James R. Marker.

By a combined effort of the commissioners of both counties and the Lincoln highway boosters of Bucyrus, Nevada and Upper Sandusky, the Lincoln highway has been made an additional state road from Bucyrus to Upper Sandusky.

This section is now designated as Market Route No. 3.

Reduce All Grades.

Reduce all grades to at least five per cent if possible. In some states roads are laid out on section lines and hills must be gone over, but where possible avoid steep grades, as these are a constant cost for maintenance and dangerous to travel.
